

In this episode of #PasstheMicYouth, hosts Luke and Sam take on a simple yet complex question: What is activism? Hear from them along with several other students about their thoughts on activism, and find out different ways -- big and small -- that you, too, can be an activist.

- What does activism mean to you?
- What are ways that you've participated in activism in the past?
- In what ways do you think that young people can create policy change?
- What did you think about the Oxford dictionary definition of activism compared to the various students' definitions of activism? How does it compare to your definition?
- Have you ever been part of a conversation when someone changed your mind about an important topic? How is persuasion related to activism?
